City isn't prepared for gasoline crisis

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Since major expressways criss-cross Romulus, with I-94 serving east-west traffic and the proposed I-275 serving north-south traffic, the city and, in fact, all of Western Wayne County are not prepared for the energy crisis and gasoline shortages.

Detroit's metropolitan area had no need for mass transit systems to save on gasoline, because Michigan has the finest expressway system in the nation.

If rationing is implemented, a man working in Detroit would be able to make the two-way trip to work and back daily. But he only would be able to drive another 50 miles a month for other necessities.

WHEN THE NEAREST shopping center is six miles from the heart of town, 50 miles a month wouldn't allow for much of anything but grocery shopping.

The residents of Romulus have no means to travel without the automobile.

Romulus contains the heart of Metropolitan Detroit's mass transit system—the airport—but has no other form of transit.

Buses don't run to the airport today, because there has been no need for them. The nearest bus connection to points east of Romulus runs down Michigan Avenue from Wayne into Detroit. If a resident wants to ride west—there's no bus traveling that way.

AND, OFFICIALS are concerned.

Romulus Mayor Pro Tem Beverly McAnally said: "I have seen the need for transportation in the community for some time, especially when I consider that a housewife in a subdivision without a second car can't get about."

"She has to make arrangements for her husband to leave the car behind, or forget about doing anything outside for the home during the day."

Mrs. McAnally said that when the DSR ran down Middlebelt Road to Metropolitan Airport it alleviated some of the need for transit. It hasn't operated for several years. But, back then, no one needed the line, and few people used it, she added.

"I USED TO TAKE that bus line every once in a while to do shopping," Mrs. McAnally said. "But now I can't take it. And, like everyone else, I'm dependent upon the car."

She said she would like to see the development of some sort of transit service—possibly reinstituting the Middlebelt run and a type of "mini-bus" service to serve the neighborhoods.

"We're so fragmented, we have to obtain other service beyond the normal bus service," she added. "If we had a small mini-bus service which even served individual neighborhoods, and helped connect the residents to a larger transit line, it would improve city services vastly."

Yet, she would like to see a self-sufficient community, which depends on no outside source for shopping, before she sees vast transit improvements made in Romulus.

"I DON'T WANT a system which moves people out of the city to do their daily business," she said. "I'd rather see a system which helps the people complete their business in the city."

Mayor Terry L. Troutt agrees.

"I promised to bring a shopping center to Romulus, and I want to give that a full shot," he said. "It doesn't do any good for this city if people get on a bus to buy their socks in another community."

"We ought to buy them here—and the only way to do that is to get a shopping center in this town to serve all the residents."

TROUTT SAID he saw a need for transit to get people to and from work, but added: "We're fortunate to have enough employers here that people don't have to leave Romulus for a job."

"I'd sure like to see other people served. But I'd rather bring people to Romulus rather than send them away with a transit system."

Troutt indicated he had preliminary contacts with the Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority on plans for a transit system involving Taylor and Romulus, but added: "I don't want to get involved with another community so our citizens can spend their money in that community."

"It'd be nice to transport the people inside this city."

YOU CALL THAT RAIN — For most of the afternoon local weathermen stuck to the forecast of rain for the Detroit metropolitan area, but Western Wayne County residents weren't fooled by the blanket of heavy, wet snow that slowed rush hour traffic and made driving a "slippery" experience. Most drivers took the change in road conditions in stride with their usual "here-we-go-again" style. — Romulus Roman photo by Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

In committee

Board, students may find answer

By KAY DeBORD
Of The Roman Staff

It took until 1 a.m. Tuesday, but the Romulus Board of Education and the student body at Romulus High School may have found a solution to the breakdown in "communications" claimed by both sides.

Following an executive session, winding up the regular agenda at the lengthy meeting attended by a standing-room crowd Monday night, student representatives met with board and administration members and formed a committee to try to resolve the differences of opinion between the two groups.

The committee is to be made up of Supt. Robert L. McConeghy or his designate, Romulus High School Principal Joel Carr or his designate, student and a parent to be selected by the Romulus High School Student Council.

The results of meetings of the committee are to be reported to the board and to the students through their representatives.

Claims and counterclaims of lack of communication have been made by both board and student representatives following meetings on a series of proposals recently presented by the students to the board.

In most instances, parents speaking at the Monday night meeting backed the action of the students in their desire to be heard. Others said the mass suspensions that followed the recent walk-out of students at the high school were unjust in a number of instances.

The protested suspensions are to be re-examined by Carr.

THANKS FOR SMALL BOOTS — Young Jeff Gischla of the Cory Elementary School shows why shoe manufacturers make small-sized boots for kindergarteners, and why parents should outfit their children with them. With the on-off snowfall and the constant freezing and melting, the walkways in Romulus aren't of the best quality for children's shoes. Jeff, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gischla, 9438 Lisa St., Romulus, agreed to pose for our picture to illustrate the need for water-repellant boots. — Romulus Roman photo.

Roman series explains drunk driver menace

Drunk drivers kill.

Scientists and statisticians concur that one of every 25 cars driven in Michigan after nightfall has a drunk driver.

Braking time in emergencies is delayed, the driver has fogged tunnel vision, sounds are muffled and judgement is impaired.

What is Michigan and its local communities doing to keep drinking and drunk drivers off the highways? The drunk driving arrest figures jumped from 10,000 to 35,771 in six years.

Enterprise-Roman Lansing Bureau Chief Bob Berg will tell the story in a three-part series starting in today's paper.

He has consulted the scientists and police to describe the physical and legal effects on a drunk driver, the efforts of concerned officials to reduce the menace - and the reluctance among some prosecutors and judges to enforce the law.

It's a tough, hard-hitting series describing one of society's critical problems and the efforts of state and local officials to cope with it.

Read "Drunk Drivers Kill" starting today in the Enterprise-Roman.

After yearly audit

City implements suggestions for 'tightening' bookkeeping

Romulus has received several recommendations from the Michigan Department of Treasury to "tighten up" on its books following an audit of the 1972-73 fiscal year.

City Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz has received nine recommendations from the Allison Green, state treasurer, which should be implemented to improve bookkeeping.

"We've attempted to comply with all the recommendations, and have drawn up a letter telling the state treasurer as much," Lewkowicz said.

AMONG THE recommendations given to the city were:

- to upgrade the city's expense and mileage recording procedure;
- to require council approval for inter-fund loans;
- to adopt state required accounting procedures for the city's gas and weigh tax allotments;
- to review rates charged to city funds by the motor pool and equipment fund;

- to provide a regular monthly update of the city's financial status to the council;
- to file reimbursement claims with the federal and state government more swiftly;
- to record financial transactions involving payment of interest and principal on long-term loans in the debt service fund;

- to improve inventory and purchasing controls and adopt the regular bidding procedure, and,
- to review the entire budget process.

quick to point out that the recommendations were on the budget drawn up during the Hyle J. Carmichael administration in city hall.

"In fact, 'we had started some of the changes even before the state audit report,' Lewkowicz said.

Both a budget procedure review and an inventory with improved purchasing controls has been implemented by the treasurer.

Lewkowicz supervises former Romulus Township Treasurer Edmund Bizek Sr., in a new department of purchasing, which is designed to save the city money by making mass purchases instead of piecemeal buys.

MAYOR TERRY L. Troutt has hired Barry Baumann to implement a new inventory control procedure in the city's department of public works.

Lewkowicz is tying up loose ends with an inventory he ordered at the time he took office.

City clerk will question residents in Romulus

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus residents will be asked the question, "What do you think?" about proposed changes in voter registration by Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar.

Folmar is preparing a questionnaire to be mailed later this week inquiring about plans to allow registration for voting at the time a prospective voter signs up for his driver's license.

"It no doubt will work to enfranchise more voters," Folmar said. "But it also will place a burden on the local clerks' office."

"I WANT TO FIND out what my constituents think before I take any formal stand."

The plan, proposed by Michigan Secretary of State Richard Austin, allows voting aged drivers to sign applications requesting forms for registering to vote.

'I want to find out what my constituents think before I take any formal stand'

Folmar said the applications, to be distributed at drivers' license bureaus by the state, constitute a legal voter registration in the eyes of the state. Yet cities will not have their records completed.

"I'm not sure what I'm supposed to do when I get the application," Folmar said. "Do I send a deputy registrar out to the home to give him the formal paperwork, or wait until the prospective voter shows up at the polls to have him sign papers?"

THE DEPUTY registrar, or just any worker from this office, would cost the city some money, and signing people at the elections would take a lot of time.

"Still, people have the right to vote, and I'm willing to change procedures, providing Romulus residents wish to change them."

Folmar said some clerks in other cities are "violently opposed" to any change in the registration procedure because it removes a clerk's control over his rolls.

"The law says the clerk has the right to refuse a registration," Folmar said. "Many clerks are afraid that taking applications denies them the right to control their registration rolls."

FOLMAR SAID city clerks would receive one benefit from the new procedure, if implemented.

"We'd be able to keep better track of our registered voters," he said. "Any person applying for a license also could file an application to change his address, and our notice from that application would constitute legal notice to purge our rolls."

Folmar recently started a cumbersome procedure aimed at determining whether 1,200 voters on his rolls still live within the community.

Letters were mailed three weeks ago to addresses contained on the registration rolls. If the letters are not delivered, and returned to the clerk, they will be used as evidence that the voter no longer lives in the community.

YET, FOLMAR must keep the name in an "inactive file" in case some mistake was made in mailing.

The procedure makes the rolls at the polling places less cumbersome, but does not allow a city clerk to redraw his precinct lines accurately.

Folmar believes the notification at the time of licensing would streamline all purging procedures, and allow a more accurate accounting of any city's voters.

Romulus charts drop in fire-related deaths

The Romulus Fire Department reported a reduction in injuries and deaths by fire during 1973 as compared to four deaths in 1972.

Chief Charles Bradley reported that two people died as a result of fires in 1973 as compared to four deaths in 1972.

Only one person was injured in a blaze during the past year, down two from the previous year's figures.

Losses due to 381 reported fires during 1973 amounted to $541,000. The department made 139 resuscitator runs and answered 31 false alarms.

THE FIRE department cost Romulus taxpayers $49,514 during 1973. A cost breakdown shows $1,225 used for officer's pay, $651 for secretary's pay, $2,380 for meeting pay, $43,800 for salaries and $1,458 for resuscitator run expenses.

The department's contingent of 50 volunteers answered a total of 553 calls during the year, including 160 calls for two or more stations and four calls to assist other departments.

Included in the fire total were 31 commercial fire, 46 house and apartment fires, 25 fires in abandoned buildings, 20 fires in out-buildings, 90 vehicle fires, 144 grass, woods and rubbish fires and five fires in wires.

Twenty calls were to wash down roads after vehicle accidents.

THE DEPARTMENT operated a total of eight pieces of equipment during 1973 and expects to add another fire truck in late 1974.

The two major fires during the year were a motel fire in the Ramada Inn in Romulus in the late winter and a tanker-truck fire in mid-summer on the I-94 freeway.

No one was injured in the motel fire, but the driver of the tanker truck perished in the fiery crash.

Senator asks end of required height

The Michigan State Police height requirement is discriminatory and should be eliminated, according to Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) who has urged the dropping of the controversial requirement.

Responding to a plea for assistance from a young Westland man, Faust told state police director Col. John R. Plant by letter that the department was discriminatory in rejecting the application of Mark Tomlinson because of his height.

Faust said he has requested an opinion from Attorney General Frank Kelley in hopes of declaring the rule unconstitutional.

"The police department has been under a great deal of criticism because of their insistence in complying with the height requirement found to be discriminatory by the United States Department of Justice in March, 1973," Faust said.

"Mark had exercised faithfully for months, stretching his height from its normal 5 feet-8 1/4 inches to the required 5 feet-9 inches," Faust said. He made it, only to learn later that the department had misplaced his passing measurement record."

According to the senator Mark had left the security of his job with the Highway Department, given up all of his benefits, preparing to transfer to the State Police.

2 crash victims unnamed

The victims of the crash of a twin-engine airplane in Romulus remain unidentified today, despite attempts by the Wayne County Medical Examiner to have the families of the suspected victims identify the bodies.

The Medical Examiner is awaiting information on dental records of two men believed to have died in the plane crash at 7 p.m. Saturday in a field near Northline and Wahrman roads.

The two victims, believed to be Steven Crick and Allen Repp, both of Farmington, died when their plane, making a final approach to Detroit Metropolitan Airport in apparently clear weather, crashed into a swampy area two miles south of the airport.

The bodies of the two men were burned beyond recognition in the fire which followed the crash, sheriffs said.

Units of the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol were on the scene within minutes after the crash was reported by a resident near the site. The bodies of the two victims could not be pulled from the airplane's blazing cabin, they said.

The plane, a twin engine Beechcraft owned by a Farmington firm, was enroute to Detroit Metropolitan Airport on a flight from Richmond, Va.

Romulus tightens books

The treasurer did not give any timetable for implementing all the state recommendations, but indicated they would be adopted as soon as possible.

Several of the recommendations forwarded to the city, particularly those on accounting procedures, bidding procedures and council adoption of transfers, were recommended in the first audit of the city's books more than two years ago.

TROUTT AND Lewkowicz based their campaigns for office on the deficiency of the Carmichael Administration in bookkeeping — alleging mispending of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Both the treasurer and mayor indicate they will clean up the procedures themselves.

"We don't want to get blamed for mistakes by any former administration," Troutt said.

'Crack down' on taxpayers gaining some muscle in city

Romulus Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz said his "crack down" on delinquent taxpayers is gaining some muscle.

Lewkowicz has notified one business which has owed money since 1971 that it has 10 days to pay, or face the consequences.

Although he wouldn't reveal the name of the business, Lewkowicz said he is starting state authorized procedures to obtain the taxes owed since 1971 which could lead to a tax sale of the business' property.

"THE CITY is giving the owner 10 day notice, and will issue a notice placing his property in jeopardy if he doesn't pay the $7,000 owed since 1971," Lewkowicz said. "After the notice of jeopardy, which freezes the company's assets until the city and Wayne County collects back taxes, the city would be empowered to initiate tax sale proceedings through Wayne County."

"But the company seems content to ride on the city's rolls without paying for the services."

The business is one of five from 1971 which owe $2,600 in back taxes from that year alone.

Of the five, three have gone out of business, one has changed ownership and one still is in business, the treasurer said.

BACK TAXES for that year alone, with interest, range from $1,026 to nearly $400 for the five businesses.

Personal property taxes for businesses are due in March of each year, with interest penalties tacked on to the amounts owed with each month the taxes are owed. Lewkowicz is attempting to clear up the five businesses owing taxes since 1971 before he tackles another 19 businesses owing nearly $20,000 in back taxes from 1972.

$100,000 needed

Ballfields may be lightened

If the Romulus Sports Fund Development Committee can raise $100,000 in private funds, the Romulus Board of Education will give its permission for the lighting of the football field at Romulus High School as part of the recreation lighting program in the community.

The amount includes installation of lights at Johnson Park's softball field, which has priority in the recreation plans for the city.

The board, however, approved the lighting Monday night with the school district retain control of the field and that the lights become property of the school system.

ALL PLANS for the project are required to go through the district's maintenance and operations department.

The action came after the board heard a report on the lighting drive given by Melvin Morgan, chairman of the recreation sports fund development committee. Also heard was the report of board members Carl Morris and Jack Bath, who represented the board at a recent meeting of the recreation group, attended by service club and church representatives from Romulus.

A number of fund-raising activities are planned for the lighting project, according to Morgan.

The board also granted permission for a "goalpost" to show the progress of the drive, to be placed on Wayne Road in front of Romulus High School.

ROMULUS SCHOOL Supt. Robert L. McConeghy said the installation of lighting at the high school field would bring about increased pressure for playing of night football games by the high school team and the board would have to make a change in the policy. Presently it does not permit the scheduling of home games at night.

McConeghy also said there will be a need for additional lavatory facilities, concession stands and bleacher seats if the policy is changed.

Romulus school will revert to former 'housing formula'

Students will go back to the former "housing formula" of kindergarten to sixth graders in the elementary level, seventh and eighth graders in the junior high level and ninth to 12th graders in at the high school level in September.

The decision was made by the Romulus Board of Education at the Monday night meeting despite recommendations of school administrators to continue the split sessions. Currently students in the sixth and seventh grades are in the Middle School and eighth and ninth graders in junior high school use Romulus Junior High School.

The board's action found favor with a number of parents in the audience at the meeting. They expressed dissatisfaction with the split days at the Middle and Romulus Junior High schools.

The board also heard a report on the Vocational and Career Education Programs at the high school presented by Al Sheffield, program director. It decided to take under advisement some plans for expansion of the program and improvements in the classrooms requested by Sheffield to come from state funds already earmarked for the program.

Curriculum reports also were presented by Joel Carr, Romulus High School Principal, on the mini courses at the high school and by Harold Connon, Principal of Mt. Pleasant Elementary School on the Individually Guided Education Program at the school.

Drunk drivers kill and maim

Police blame lenient traffic enforcement

By BOB BERG
Lansing Bureau Chief

First of three-part series
LANSING — Drunk drivers kill people. It has been said thousands of times in thousands of ways, but it all boils down to that basic fact.
Drunk drivers kill people. And they maim people.

A study by the Highway Safety Research Institute at the University of Michigan conducted during night hours in Washtenaw County showed that 10 per cent of the 746 drivers tested randomly at 48 different sites had a blood alcohol content of .05 per cent or higher.

STATE POLICE HAVE FOUND that 46 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal accidents have been drinking — nearly five times their frequency on the highway during the heaviest drinking hours.

There were 2,210 persons killed on Michigan streets and highways last year and some 2,500 drivers involved in those accidents. The final figures aren't in, but roughly 1,200 of those drivers had been drinking.

The problem has been with us since the first motor vehicles appeared on Michigan highways. An article from the Quarterly Journal of Inebriety in 1904 entitled "Motor Wagons" says that of 25 fatal accidents "occurring to automobile wagons, a careful inquiry showed that in 19 of these accidents the driver had used spirits within an hour or more of the disaster."

'Attorneys and judges ought to have to go out and scrape up off the pavement some of the people hurt and killed by drunk drivers.'

THOUGH A DRIVER'S ability is affected by alcohol when the alcohol content surpasses .05 per cent in the blood stream, Michigan law classifies driving under the influence of alcohol, "Drunk Driving," as driving with at least twice that much alcohol in the blood stream — .10 per cent. Driving with .08 or .09 per cent alcohol in the blood stream is classified as impaired driving and is a lesser charge.

A conviction of driving under the influence of alcohol means suspension of the drivers license for from 90 days to two years and can mean a jail sentence or a fine. But practically speaking, jail sentences are not imposed at least on the first offense.

When compared with the rest of the world, Michigan and the rest of the United States look lenient in their handling of drunk drivers.

For example, in Bulgaria, drivers who have been drinking and cause a death are jailed for a minimum of 10 years. In South Africa the penalty for drunk driving can be 10 years in jail and a fine.

IN SWEDEN, WHICH has roughly the same population as Michigan, the highway death rate is half of Michigan's, at least in part due to the harsh treatment of drunk drivers. And in Sweden .05 per cent alcohol in the blood stream is the legal limit for drunk driving.

Several eastern European countries, including Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and East Germany set the drunk driving limit at only .03 per cent alcohol in the blood stream.

The result is that in these countries and others who deal harshly with drunk drivers, drinkers don't drive. In these countries turning down a drink with the statement "No thanks, I'm driving," is accepted without argument. Partygoers often draw straws to see who will drive home after a party. The person holding the short straw sticks solely to soft drinks.

In addition to its more lenient penalties and standards, Michigan has another problem. Even when a man is arrested and blows a very drunk reading on a breathalyzer, the prosecuting attorney or the court may reduce the charge.

In 1972, 23,667 drivers arrested in Michigan tested 10 per cent alcohol or more, yet only 15,404 were actually charged and convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol. Police, anxious not to ruffle the feathers of prosecuting attorneys, don't like to be quoted by name on the subject. But they say some counties in the state are notorious for having prosecuting attorneys who lower charges.

"IT IS FRUSTRATING as hell, but there isn't anything you can do about it," said one policeman. "Maybe these prosecuting attorneys and judges ought to have to go out and scrape up off the pavement some of the people hurt and killed by drunk drivers. Maybe they wouldn't be so damn lenient then."

State Police Director John Plants says part of the problem is that "the patrolman who issues the ticket for driving under the influence sees the man when he's drunk. He may have thrown up in the car and he obviously has no business driving."

"The judge on the other hand sees a clean cut guy who may have a wife and kids waiting for him. If he throws the guy in jail or takes away his drivers license he will cost the guy his job, so he turns him loose."

PLANTS SAYS THE situation makes it harder to enforce drunk driving laws and to cut down on drunk drivers.

"People obey the law either because they believe in it or because they are afraid not to," he says. "Many drivers are willing to drive while they've been drinking because they don't think the ramifications of doing that are very strong."

The secret ballot wins another test

All bets are off when you do into a secret ballot situation.

Jack Toepp learned that the hard way. The Republican Senator from Cadillac thought he had the Republican Leadership position locked up when he went into a GOP caucus last Tuesday. The position had opened up earlier in the day when Sen. Robert Vander Laan, R-Grand Rapids, relinquished it because he won the Republican nomination to succeed Gerald Ford in Congress.

But when the votes were counted, the new Republican Leader was Sen. Milton Zaagman, also of Grand Rapids.

"Both Miltie and Jack told me they were going into the caucus with 12 votes," said one caucus member after it was over. "You knew one of them was off in his arithmetic. There are only 18 guys in the caucus."

It was reminiscent of the time Sen. Edward Kennedy lost the Democratic Whip position in the U.S. Senate in a secret ballot. A poll of Democrats afterward revealed more who said they voted for Kennedy than votes for Kennedy, but since it was a secret ballot no one knew who was lying.

Jack Toepp will never know who lied to him, either.

Caucus members maintained the vote totals were never even announced.

The votes were counted by Sens. Donald Bishop of Rochester and Alvin DeGrow of Pigeon. All they would say was that only one ballot was taken.

"We said when the vote reached 10 we'd stop counting," DeGrow said. "All we can say is that there were 10 or more votes for Zaagman. We were told before the caucus the vote wouldn't be announced and it won't."

Several caucus members said privately the Zaagman win came not as the result of a concerted effort on Zaagman's part but more as sort of a consensus situation.

"It just sort of fell together," said one member.

Zaagman has been President Pro Tem since 1971 and has been a less partisan senator than Toepp, having a good rapport with the Democratic caucus. He has proven he can work hard, having been instrumental in putting together the final legislative form of the presidential primary and spearheading the campaign reform bill which recently passed the upper chamber.

There was a feeling by some, never articulated except privately, that Toepp might be too partisan to get along in a chamber evenly divided and that Zaagman was more the statesman of the two.

But Toepp, who retains his post as Republican Whip, will never know why those who voted against him did so. He will never even know how many votes he got or who they came from.

As he sat in his Senate seat after the Tuesday caucus, obviously crestfallen but trying to keep up a strong front, he had to be wondering what happened and who had said they'd vote for him and then didn't.

With a secret ballot he'll never know.

Death on the highway is a national dilemma, and the toll rises despite traffic warnings.

Voice of the people

Snowmobile warning

To the Editor: I am writing this article hoping, with it and the help of God, it may save lives or prevent serious injury to snowmobilers. This article contains true experiences that have happened to a member of my family and myself.

I am a registered Safe Snowmobile Instructor with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and the owner of two snowmobiles with plastic gas tanks. The machines are constructed with the plastic gas tanks mounted in the front end, under and along side of the hot engine and muffler system.

The first experience that has happened to other snowmobilers and myself was when our snowmobiles were parked in a building. The plastic gas tanks ruptured with the gasoline running out of the tank onto the floor, filling the building with gasoline fumes. Stop to think — what would happen if someone walked into the building smoking, or of the building was a garage attached to a home with a heater and pilot light.

The second experience happened to a member of my family. The plastic gasoline tank ruptured as the machine was running, bursting into flames and with the cone-type construction with the end open at the rider. The flames have no place to go but onto the rider and into his face.

If this ever happens to any snowmobiler, the best thing to do is roll off the machine, then roll in the snow to put out any flames. Do not roll off the machine and get up and run for help. The air, as you run, will fan the flames making them burn harder.

The wanton abortion of life is reckless

To the men and women of Western Wayne County who took time from their homes and work to take part in last Tuesday's anti-abortion demonstration in the nation's capital — we salute you.

While we support the use of abortion when it means saving the life of a woman, we find it difficult to support the Supreme Court edict which condones abortions — with no strings — in the first three months of conception.

When you plant a flower, you water it and hope Mother Nature will cooperate with the proper climate and sunshine — yet when it comes to human life the Supreme Court says the seed of life has no meaning.

Is not the beginning of human life even worth the same care and attention we mortals give to flowers, shrubs and green-coated lawns?

Proponents of abortion reform claim the decision is a question of civil rights; a civil right that belongs solely between the woman and her doctor.

Last year there were 800,000 abortions in this country, and each case the abortion was legal because the United States Supreme Court said so.

If one questions our opposition to the open and wanton abortion of future generations, think for a second how beautiful life is — and thank God for blessing the woman who carried you for nine months...and gave you life.

When members of the Westland-based Lifespan organization took part in Tuesday's demonstration, they did so in hopes that it would spark a reawakening of God-loving Americans to support a Constitutional Amendment that aims to nullify the High Court mandate of a year ago.

Deserted by panic-stricken GOP 'allies'

Nixon shows he's no quitter

By MITCH KEHETIAN
Enterprise-Roman Editor

They blamed Franklin Delano Roosevelt for the Soviet takeover of eastern Europe.

They denounced Harry S. Truman for firing Gen. Douglas MacArthur at the height of the Korean Conflict.

They blistered John F. Kennedy for the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of Castro's Cuban stronghold.

THEY DUMPED THE VIETNAM fiasco on the shoulders of Lyndon B. Johnson — and toward the end, even the Democratic Party turned away from Mr. Democrat.

Yet, each of the four presidents mentioned, did what had to be done at the time — leaving their actions for the historians to digest.

Now we have President Richard M. Nixon — the target of a threatened impeachment over Watergate.

AND MICHIGAN'S JERRY FORD says "the President will not resign," thus leaving the impeachment threat the only path Democrats and panic-stricken Republicans can take in forcing the President to vacate the White House.

"If they want me out, they'll have to kick me out," Nixon retorts.

The nation's present dilemma of spiraling living costs, energy shortages, gasoline rationing threats...and an apparent breakdown in government respect is foreign to this generation — but not to citizens of the old world.

THIS NATION'S PRESENT economic instability is being felt around the world, and the condition of the world in general is a shaky picture.

So everyone blames Richard Nixon, after all, he's the top man and the boss always takes it on the chin.

Some say Nixon's image is hurting America's respectability within the allied camp. I say, what allies? At the height of the latest Middle East crisis Italy and Turkey said we'd have to find other sources for refueling the Mediterranean Fleet.

In London and Paris, it was much the same. Each one looking out for his own hide...the same allies we saved in two World Wars.

BUT A LOOK AT the record tells me the killing of Americans has stopped in Vietnam, the door has opened to Peking and Moscow — and with it, hopes for generations of peace.

And who would have believed that Arab and Jew would finally sit down and talk peace, and with this stroke of genius — the possibility of a lasting peace between two ancient civilizations.

Even more heartening is knowing that this nation spearheaded the Geneva peace talks between the Arabs and Jews, and it was this country that went in determined to stop the fighting before it exploded into a Third World War.

At this critical time in history, where were our so-called allies? I know, they were out hustling oil and told Uncle Sam: "Don't count on me..."

NIXON'S CABINET MAY HAVE fallen apart, and his former vice president forced to quit because of a tax scandal — but he continues to lead this nation in getting the work done on the international scene to preserve world peace.

And those who call for his resignation, Republicans especially, aren't kidding me. They're running scared because it's an election year — and they run with the same speed as our so-called allies.

But Richard Nixon doesn't run scared, maybe that's why the American people decided he was better than George McGovern.

Stamps by mail sales rise in suburban communities

Area residents can save gasoline by ordering stamps by mail rather than driving to a post office, according to Romulus and Belleville postal officials.

Many families and businesses are saving fuel by using the convenient stamps by mail service introduced last August in selected post offices throughout the 13-state central region of the U.S. Postal Service as part of a national plan.

The stamps by mail program was introduced at the Belleville and Romulus Post Offices in September and has been growing each month since, said Postmasters R. J. O'Neil and William Laginess of Belleville and Romulus post offices respectively.

For each transaction, the post office charges 40 cents for handling costs, including postage.

Using a handy self-mailer provided by the postal service, customers simply check the quantities of stamps and stamped envelopes needed, enclose a check or money order and drop the envelope in the mail. Then stamps are delivered in most cases by the second business day.

Firemen participate in study

Fire Chief Anthony Talaga and Firemen Jerry Warshop, Oscar Fredericks and Frank Dumia were among firefighters at the two-day seminar.

Sumpter ski slope?

Trustees reject landfill plan

A sanitation company offer to build a ski slope in Sumpter Township is "just an excuse to operate longer," township officials charged in their rejection of the proposal.

Sanitas Corporation, owner of the township's sanitary landfill at Willow and Sumpter roads, had proposed that they operate the landfill for another 12 years in order to accumulate a "mountain" of garbage to be used as a ski slope.

Sanitas has not fulfilled an earlier promise to build a golf course and cover it with topsoil. The 200-foot tall ski slope would give the company a reason to remain in the township for 12 more years dumping garbage, Supervisor Robert Marble said.

RESIDENTS IN THE township want the landfill covered and closed as quickly as possible, Marble said.

Marble suggested that the Sanitas Corporation might be going out of business even though it is a national corporation.

In October, Marble said he noticed that the Sanitas stock had been taken off the market, but the company officials assured the board that it was due to only a late filing of paper.

The stock returned to the market two weeks later.

The proposal would allow Sanitas to operate the landfill for many more years and leave the township with "a big hill."

Sanitas officials told township board members that they are expected to rely on township money or federal recreation grants to turn the hill into a ski slope. "We have no guarantee that we would get the money," Marble said.

The originally planned development of a golf course will probably be carried out, he added.

County will hold meet in Romulus

The second in a series of meetings which will help shape a long-term "development strategy" for Wayne County will be held by the Wayne County Planning Commission Thursday.

The 3½ hour session will start at 6 a.m. at the Metro Hilton Inn, just off I-94 north of Detroit-Metropolitan Wayne County Airport in Romulus.

The importance of retaining agricultural land in highly-industrialized Wayne County will be the subject of the session.

A similar session will be held for local planning staffs from 2 to 4:30 p.m. on the same day at the Wayne County Planning Commission offices, 7th floor, City-County Building.

Classmates join Jeff for birthday fun

THERE WERE nine candles for Jeffrey Eichold to blow out as he marked his 1974 birthday January 16. The son of Larry and Bev Eichold of Lenmore Drive, Belleville, Jeff had 10 classmates in to share his big day.

Arriving after classes at Haggerty School, the group enjoyed a variety of games and guessing contests conducted by the honoree's two sisters, Kim and Debbie. Prizes and traditional birthday fare were also part of the fun for Scott Stillabower, Mingo Koss, Tim Center, David Enzenaur, Paul Newell, Kelly Kubitsky, John Pearson, Johnny Wilson, Brian Bennett and Mike Mullins.

They're on-their-toes in publicity work

WHEN IT COMES to doing promotion work for any event which is meant to attract the public, we would highly recommend Judi Adams and Dorothy Florian for the task since the two do a really bang-up job in getting their project across.

Two of the Belleville Community Players biggest fans and hardest workers, the pair come across so strongly with their enthusiasm that it makes one want to grab his coat and dash over to the auditorium to get in on the fun.

There seems to be a special rapport with that whole group whether one is the 'star' or head-hammer - in the spotlight or completely behind the scenes. The term 'stage struck' has two living, breathing 'definitions' in the personages of Dorothy and Judi who've been in or called in every week to see that their product gets as much ink as possible.

And this week they're toting the special lighting workshop which will be held tonight (the 30th) from 8 to 10:30 back stage at the BHS auditorium. Glenn Curtis, who's been a stalwart in the high school musicals the past three years, will present the do's and don't's, why's and wherefore's and how-to's of stage lighting. Anyone interested in that phase of the theater is urged to join the crowd tonight.

In case you haven't been paying attention, Judi and Dot's promo work is being done for 'Wait Until Dark', a mystery drama set for February 22-23. Now completely cast (Jon Hale and Chuck King playing the cops) the play is in bi-weekly rehearsal and is, by far, the most difficult the Players have attempted. Mondays and Thursdays at 8 are the times for rehearsal and all the other work that's involved when opening night is just three weeks away.

Men's Club chalks up another successful dance

AT THE MIKE — Father Raymond Skoney took to the stage Saturday night, January 19, to welcome 'his flock' and their many guests to the parish's 'Holiday Dance' sponsored by the Men's Club. He and his two assistants, Father Charles Borowski and the Rev. Mr. Mike Wasilewski, did a bit of table-hopping during the evening and found a few names to go with the faces they see each week at mass.

TABLE MATES — Sharing one of the many tables which bordered the dance floor at the January 19 gala hosted by the Men's Club of St. Anthony's Church were (from left) Mr. and Mrs. Ted Zywicki, Mrs. William Jenkins, Mrs. Kathryn Jenkins and Bill Jenkins. Stopping by to say hello was Mrs. Lloyd Freeman (standing).

SITTING ONE OUT — Van Buren Township Supervisor and Mrs. Elton Gollwitzer were among the 225 patrons attending the fifth annual dinner-dance hosted by St. Anthony's Men's Club. The Gollwitzers shared their table with their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. George Demick, and other friends.

THE CLUB'S BACK BONE — When it comes to making Men's Club activities a success, Bob Tontalo (left) and Jerome Fay can always be counted on to give a helping hand. Bob was co-chairman of the club's fifth annual dinner-dance which boasted of a sell-out crowd a week before the dance. The George Teller Combo came from Adrian to repeat its successful appearance here last year and played requests and specialty numbers 'til two in the morning. Bob and Jerome, their wives, Betty and Sally, and their guests enjoyed a cocktail hour and buffet dinner prior to dancing.

HE WAS CO-CHAIRMAN — Don Meyer, who co-chaired his club's annual 'Holiday Dance' January 19 at St. Anthony's Father Folta Building, attended the eight-to-two event with his wife, Jean. But the photographer happened to snap him with the woman on his left, Mrs. Edward Mai, who came from neighboring St. Ursula's Parish with her husband and a host of other friends for the occasion. Handling tickets (which were snapped up immediately by regular patrons) were Al Szuma and Jo Jensen. The Club has earmarked $250. of its profits for THE NUMBER, Belleville's crisis center.

Seminar on 'performance labeling' scheduled for February 4 at MSU

Distaff side outnumbers men at MSU

A survey of Big Ten university campuses discloses that Michigan State University ranks first in the percentage of women undergraduate students.

The enrollment data for fall term 1973, collected by the University of Illinois, shows that MSU, with 15,624 women undergraduates or 46.69 percent of its enrollment, edged the University of Indiana which has 10,391 or 46.58 percent.

Other Big Ten universities, and their percentages, were: Iowa, 46.27; Wisconsin, 45.55; Michigan, 44.85; Northwestern, 43.43; Ohio State, 41.78; Illinois, 39.98; Minnesota, 38.77; and Purdue, 37.73.

The average for all of the Big Ten schools was 42.78 percent, representing 105,438 women undergraduate students.

For the past three years, the number of women in the freshman class at Michigan State University has outnumbered men by a slight margin.

dryers, heaters, air conditioners, stoves and dishwashers, to provide consumers with information on energy consumption and costs.

The bureau has been active in this area, and in setting priorities and monitoring progress, since President Nixon's message to Congress in April 1973, when he asked the Department of Commerce to take charge of such a voluntary program.

Meyerson also will address an interdisciplinary class on "Energy and the Family" being held this term by the Departments of Electrical Engineering and Family Ecology, according to Prof. Otto F. Krauss, who is in charge of the team-taught course.

Barbequed beef for big crowds

A menu built around barbequed beef on buns is a popular choice for chairmen planning church suppers and scout functions. Thrifty pot-roast is an ideal choice for "barbequing" and serving sandwich-style to a crowd.

The meat can be braised to juicy tenderness in a tightly covered pan early in the day or the day before. Then it may be sliced thinly and reheated in a tangy barbecue sauce for service on crusty rolls. The spicy meat in sauce also may be spooned over fluffy rice or buttered noodles.

Bakers have a daughter

Former Bellevillites Doreen and Michael Baker of Plymouth are announcing the birth of their first child, a daughter, whom they've titled Jemimah Aileen. Making her debut January 4 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, the baby weighed 7 lbs., 2 oz.

The proud grandparents are Mary and George Skardarasy of Harmony Lane and Lucille and Wallace Baker of Michigan Avenue.

Start day with Almond Lekvar

Simplified version of the Pennsylvania Dutch taste treat: Blend a jar of strained baby food prunes with 1/4 lb. soft margarine and a little honey; mix in roasted diced almonds. Spread on toasted English muffins or pancakes.

VA poll to affect benefits

The Veterans Administration (VA) has asked that veterans, widows and parents promptly return income questionnaires received last November, even though the Jan. 15 deadline has expired.

"Each year, thousands miss the deadline because questionnaires are misplaced, forgotten or lost, causing interruptions or delays of monthly benefit checks," an official said.

About 907,000 of the 1.2 million questionnaires mailed were returned to VA before the deadline. Information from the questionnaires is being used to adjust pension benefits.

Questionnaires were mailed to veterans on VA pension rolls, widows of veterans, drawing pension based on nonservice connected deaths, and parents, receiving dependency and indemnity compensation for service connected deaths of sons and daughters.

Pensioners, 72 years old or older, who have been on pension rolls during the last two consecutive years generally are exempt. "But they still must report changes in income, and those who were mailed questionnaires must return them," he said.

Information on pension and other benefits is available at VA offices and from representatives of local veterans service organizations.

Huron ponders tax hike

The Huron Board of Education is mulling over the possibility of asking Huron Township voters to approve an operating millage increase of 4.35 mills in April, according to Huron Assistant School Supt. Lee Goodney.

Goodney said the millage, if passed, would boost the school district's operating budget up the amount specified by the Bursley Bill, a state financial reimbursement bill, which allows schools districts to receive state aid.

To qualify for the Bursley Bill, however, a district must have a minimum total of 25 mills. The Huron School District now operates with 20.65 mills and needs an additional 4.35 mills to qualify for the aid package.

"We're just considering the idea of asking for the additional 4.35 mills at this stage," Goodney said. "We would, however, like to climb up to the amount needed to qualify us for the bill."

Belleville resident is singing with Men's Glee Club at U-M

A Belleville resident is a member of the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club. He is Ronald Parsons of 6215 Rawsonville Rd.

Organized in 1859, the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club is the second oldest glee club in America. Since its founding, and particularly in recent years, the glee club has won not only national but international recognition.

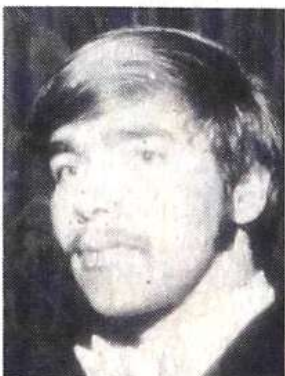

Within the United States, the club has performed concerts from New York to Honolulu, and from Seattle to Tampa. Also, since 1955, the Glee Club has made three tours through Europe alone, and in 1967 celebrated the university's sesquicentennial year by touring the world.

The 17-country tour included India, the Far East, and Europe, and the Glee Club was the third American choral group to appear behind the Iron Curtain, with concerts in Moscow and Leningrad.

Among the achievements of the glee club, perhaps the highest have been the victories at the International Musical Eisteddfod in Llangollen, Wales. In the summer of 1959 and 1963, the glee club returned with the first place award.

The glee club's spring concert is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. March 30 in Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor. The group's annual spring tour, May 5 through 14, will be in the eastern states.

On May 9, the University Symphony Band and the Men's Glee Club will present a joint concert in Carnegie Hall.

What happens when this thinking finally catches up with her provides for an action-packed, unforgettable drama, according to a Youth For Christ spokesman.

BCP director has job of creating a 'thriller'

The director of the current dramatic effort of the Belleville Community Players (BCP) is a tiny lady with a large task ahead of her as the group prepares for its upcoming presentation of "Wait Until Dark."

Since joining the group in 1971, Jean Daniels has become the Players' prime director, heading up three of the six plays they have performed.

Unlike the stereotyped temperamental director, she has been able to cope with the antics of her cast, while creating the best possible dramatic presentation.

HER CHORE is not easy. She must collaborate with the costumer, lighting and sound director and prop manager, besides analyzing the play, its characters and plotting the movements of the cast on stage.

With rehearsals under way for the group's next dramatic effort, Miss Daniels has begun the tedious task of pulling the play together as a cohesive suspense thriller.

"Wait Until Dark" is a mystery thriller about the ability of a blind woman to cope with her emotions, while outwitting a band of somewhat incompetent thieves.

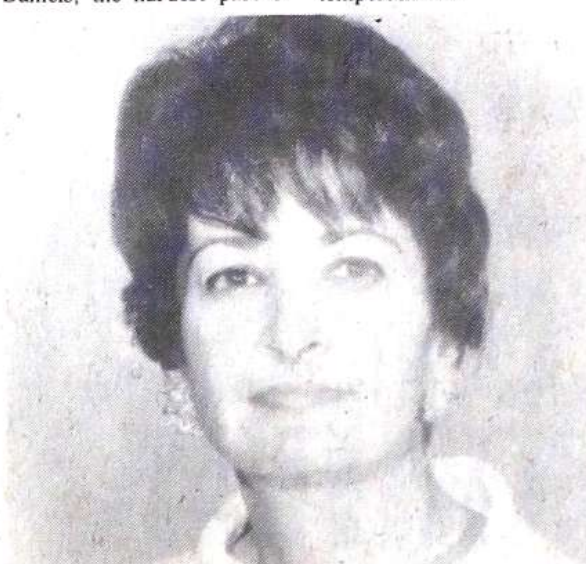

With the aid of a young child, she counters the various ploys of her tormentors in an effort to survive. The entire effort of the play hinges upon the final scene, which is done in near total darkness.

ACCORDING TO Miss Daniels, the hardest part of directing a play is working with amateur actors and actresses and their different temperaments.

JEAN DANIELS

"The director has to deal with each of these personalities," she said. "Some need to be pushed; others praised. We all have our idiosyncrasies, and the director must analyze each person in relation to his character and get them to harmonize."

She admitted that "Wait Until Dark" is the most difficult job she has undertaken as a director because "it's so intense."

According to her, the play requires special concentration leaving little opportunity for the repartee she enjoys with her cast.

The Belleville Community Players will present the Frederick Knott thriller on Feb. 22 and 23.

BLEACHER CONTRIBUTION — The Student Council at North Junior High School earned $1,000 toward the purchase of bleacher seats for the school's gymnasium through various candy sales conducted by the students. ## Students' drive raises $1,000 for construction of bleachers

A student campaign to help finance the construction of bleacher seats in the gymnasium at the North Junior High School in Belleville, has finally paid off.

The campaign, which involved candy sales and other fund raising activities, was under the direction of the school's student council.

The students earned $1,000 in their fund drive and informed the Van Buren Board of Education through the council sponsor, Paul Druker, and school administrators that the money was to be used toward the installation of bleacher seats in the gymnasium.

School Supt. Dale E. Kaulitz, who commended the students for their concern and interest in school activities, officially informed the board of education of the student's efforts and contribution.

The board of education in expressing appreciation for their actions authorized the administrative staff to advertise for bid proposals on the construction of the bleachers.

At the recent board of education session, a bid in the amount of $9,590 received from the Classrooms Inc. of Lansing was approved.

Supt. Kaulitz said that construction would begin immediately.

The relatively new North Junior High School presently has no bleachers in its gymnasium. Spectators to various gym activities were forced to sit on the gym floor.

Official denies charge of township squabbles

A reported squabble among Huron Township officials over a controversial building permit isn't that at all, according to township officials.

Huron Township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) Chairman James Tillotson has denied reports of a dispute among township departments, saying he "wasn't aware there was a controversy."

Reportedly, the disagreements are between the township's zoning board of appeals and Huron Township Supervisor George Moore over a building permit, issued by Moore, while it still was under consideration by the board.

A SPOKESMAN for the group said the board is seeking to make "legal" the permit issued by Moore. However, Moore has said he would take the board of appeals to court, if it should override his decision on the permit.

The building permit is for the construction of a small utility building on a resident's property.

Tillotson, however, said last week that the permit issuance is going to be taken under study by the ZBA at its meeting Friday. He added that there is no controversy between township officials.

"I wasn't aware there was any controversy and in my mind there is nothing of the sort," he said. "The permit is going to be studied at our meeting along with a drawing of the resident's property, submitted to us."

MOORE REPORTEDLY made several threats against the ZBA including the firing of board members if they continued to override his decision to issue the permit.

Film records attract treasurer's attention

Oakland County has a better idea in records keeping, and officials in Romulus aren't afraid to copy it.

Following a recent trip to the Oakland County Hall in Pontiac, Romulus Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz is "green with envy" over the county's ability to store records.

"They micro-film all their checks and store them away in a small room," Lewkowicz said Monday. "It's amazing how little space they waste and how far back they can keep their records with the micro-filming equipment."

PRESENTLY. THE treasurer is toying with the idea of requesting microfilming equipment in a future budget.

"We could use it both here and in the clerk's office for records keeping," the treasurer said. "I wouldn't recommend the purchase of the most expensive equipment, but I would recommend that we get a good used microfilming set-up to help clear up our records area."

City clerk Leonard Folmar agrees with Lewkowicz, but indicates that the city should consider joining with the 34th District Court in setting up a microfilming area.

"I've already talked with the court," Folmar said, "and they seem receptive to the idea."

"MY ONLY CONCERN is if we have enough records now to justify the purchase and continued use of such equipment. I haven't had the personnel in the past to straighten out the records room, and microfilming the records isn't going to help me get it straightened out any better than before," he added.

"We'll have to take a long hard look at the proposal before going after it, but I'm confident John (Lewkowicz) will research it to the fullest before proposing anything."

Requirements include resources of $1,500 for a single person and $2,250 for a couple. Resources are considered to be bank accounts, cash on hand, interest or dividends.

In addition, a house, valued at no more than $25,000, and car, valued at no more than $1,200, may be owned by those eligible for the program.

Supplemental security income represents a partnership of social security and state and local welfare agencies. People receiving aid for either the aged, blind or disabled automatically received their first supplemental security check this month.

Those who may be eligible for the program can contact the Social Security Administration at 493-1111 or by visiting its local office at 5141 Oakman Blvd., Dearborn.

New plan aids elderly under Social Security

People who are 65 years of age or older, blind or disabled with limited income now are eligible for supplemental security, a new program being administered by the Social Security Administration.

Under the plan, a maximum supplemental security income of $104 per month for single persons, living in their own homes, and $210 for couples will be paid to those meeting the qualifications.

Volunteer to ask for cancer funds

Volunteers for the American Cancer Society's Crusade Against Cancer will be asking local businesses for donations for the fight against the killer disease March 18 to March 29.

Local residents will crusade from door to door in residential areas April 1 to April 5.

In the event of inclement weather, crusaders will wait until the next day rather than going out in rain.

The United States Congress and the President have declared April as National Cancer Control Month, and volunteers for the society are asking everyone to give generously to lick cancer in our lifetime, said Norman Robbins, president of the Wayne County unit and Dennis Wholey, 1974 crusade chairman.

EMU BOTANISTS — English literature isn't all books, according to Belleville residents Linda Montie and Gaeney Kozma students at Eastern Michigan University. The girls, both juniors majoring in English literature, spend time clipping Spanish moss from a tree to be used in a terrarium for a botany class at the university. Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Montie of 1007 Huron River Dr. and Gaeney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kozma of 768 E. Huron River Dr.

County will seek drug program aid

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners is seeking state funds to help finance planning of a comprehensive approach to drug and alcoholism problems through the new Wayne County Office of Substance Abuse Services.

The commissioners authorized the new county office to apply for a $15,000 grant from the Michigan Office of Substance Abuse Services.

Matched by $15,000 in county funds, the money also would be used to provide staff services in the evaluation of the use of the controversial heroin substitute, methadone, in addition treatment programs.

The board of commissioners recently appointed a committee of eight physicians and other professionals to conduct the methadone study.

In a related action, the commissioners transferred 10 drug and alcoholism programs from the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Services (Act 54) Board to the new Office of Substance Abuse Services.

Insurance group sponsors contest

In an effort to stimulate interest in the American way of life, the Farm Bureau Insurance Group is sponsoring an essay contest for eighth grade students throughout the state.

The contest, "What America Means To Me," is the seventh such competition sponsored by the company and commemorates Washington's birthday.

Students will have a better chance of understanding their role in American society, while working towards a four-day, expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., the top prize in the state competition.

Essays may be prose or poetry and up to 500 words in length. Judging will be made on a local basis with three compositions selected from each school for the statewide competition.

Local winners will receive certificates of honor. Those placing second and third in the statewide judging will receive a presidential desk flag and an executive desk flag respectively.

The top three state essays will be sent to the National Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa., to be entered in the National School Essay Competition.

Schools of the top three essayists will receive large display flags, engraved with the contest winner's name.

Deadline for the competition is Feb. 18. Essays can be turned in at a local Farm Bureau agency and must be received at the group's Lansing office no later than March 1.

League elects Norton

Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton has been elected chairman of the Wayne County region of the Michigan Municipal League for 1974.

He was selected chairman to replace Detroit Common Councilman Ernest C. Brown by a majority vote of the 460 delegates present at Wednesday meeting in Romulus.

The delegates represented 90 per cent of the 150 cities and villages in the organization's Wayne County Region III.

Norton has been Wayne's mayor for 3 years and served a term on the city council. He also was elected vice-chairman of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority's Executive Board in June.

With the creation of a county administrator, whether the administrator is elected or appointed in the fall election Norton said his role as the league region chairman will be to work closely with him on issues and problems that concern the cities and villages in the county.

"I feel I should help open the channels of communication on issues that involve the cities," Norton added.

Other areas, such as federal and state government, also can benefit from an improvement in communications with the cities and villages, affected by the administrative decisions and legislation, he said.

Norton was selected chairman at the all-day session where representatives from cities and villages in the county attended seminars on city charters, bonding and city financing, conduct of city council meetings and municipal budgeting.

Wayne plant gears for the Maverick

The facility will employ 2,000 hourly and salary workers

By MITCH KEHETIAN
Enterprise-Roman Editor

Sixty years ago this month a Model T chassis came off an "endless chain" at Ford's Highland Park plant to mark the introduction of the "moving assembly line" in the automotive industry.

And next month when Maverick cars start rolling off the production lines at Ford's Wayne Assembly Plant on Michigan Avenue — another history-making event will take place.

When Ford officials announced late last fall of a major switch to the compact economy-saving auto line, the skeptics thought Ford President Lee A. Iacocca was pulling a major auto boner.

BUT IACOCCA PULLED no boner; and because he was a step ahead of the other auto giants — Ford's accelerated entry into the gasoline-saving compact auto field means the

No. 2 automaker will make it through the energy crisis.

Even more heartening, at least to Western Wayne County residents employed at the Wayne plant, is knowing that the public crush for smaller cars will safeguard their jobs.

Iacocca says it is costing his firm $75 million to convert each of two plants, in Wayne and Chicago, to smaller car assemblies.

General Motors and Chrysler declined to comment on their conversion costs, according to the Associated Press, but GM Chairman Richard Gerstenberg said last year that conversion is a big piece of GM's $1.3 billion capital expenditure program for 1974.

Chrysler, which converted its Newark, Del., assembly plant to compact production this month, says small cars now make up 56 percent of its capacity.

General Motors, hardest hit by layoffs due to slumping standard - big size car sales, is converting one plant to intermediate models and another to compacts this month.

American Motors is reading what industry sources describe as "a rich compact subcompact" — narrower but longer than its subcompact Gremlin.

J. E. Acker, plant manager of the Wayne facility, said the expansion at the plant will cover more than 150,000 square feet — including changes at the adjacent Truck Plant.

ACKER SAID THE Wayne auto assembly plant employs more than 2,000 hourly and salary workers, with a large percentage of the work force residing in Western Wayne County communities.

Target date for the full production of the compact Mavericks is mid-February, which means the end of standard size cars at the Wayne plant.

Prior to the building of Ford products at the Wayne plant, the facility served as a unit of the Lincoln-Mercury division of Ford Motor.

WITH THE PHASE-OUT of standard Ford cars at the Wayne plant, no Ford line car bearing the Ford name-plate will be built in Michigan — the birthplace of auto pioneer Henry Ford.

There is some speculation the new Mustang line will eventually be renamed as the Ford Mustang, but until then, Ford-named cars will be built outside of the Motor Capital state.

The plant-changeover in Wayne was launched last November, with the actual plant conversion from a standard to compact facility being set in near record time.

IN FORD MOTOR'S year-end statement last December, Iacocca said the Wayne plant changeover was one of three major plant conversions within the Ford structure.

As for the economy auto change at the Wayne plant, and similar facilities in Chicago and San Jose, Calif., Iacocca and Ford Board Chairman Henry Ford II, said:

"These and other changes in our U.S.

facilities are responsive to rapid shifts in demand resulting from consumer alarm over shortages and rising prices of gasoline."

IT ALSO WAS pointed out by the two Ford officers that small cars will account for 42 percent of U.S. car sales this year, compared to 38 percent last year — and could reach 50 percent next year.

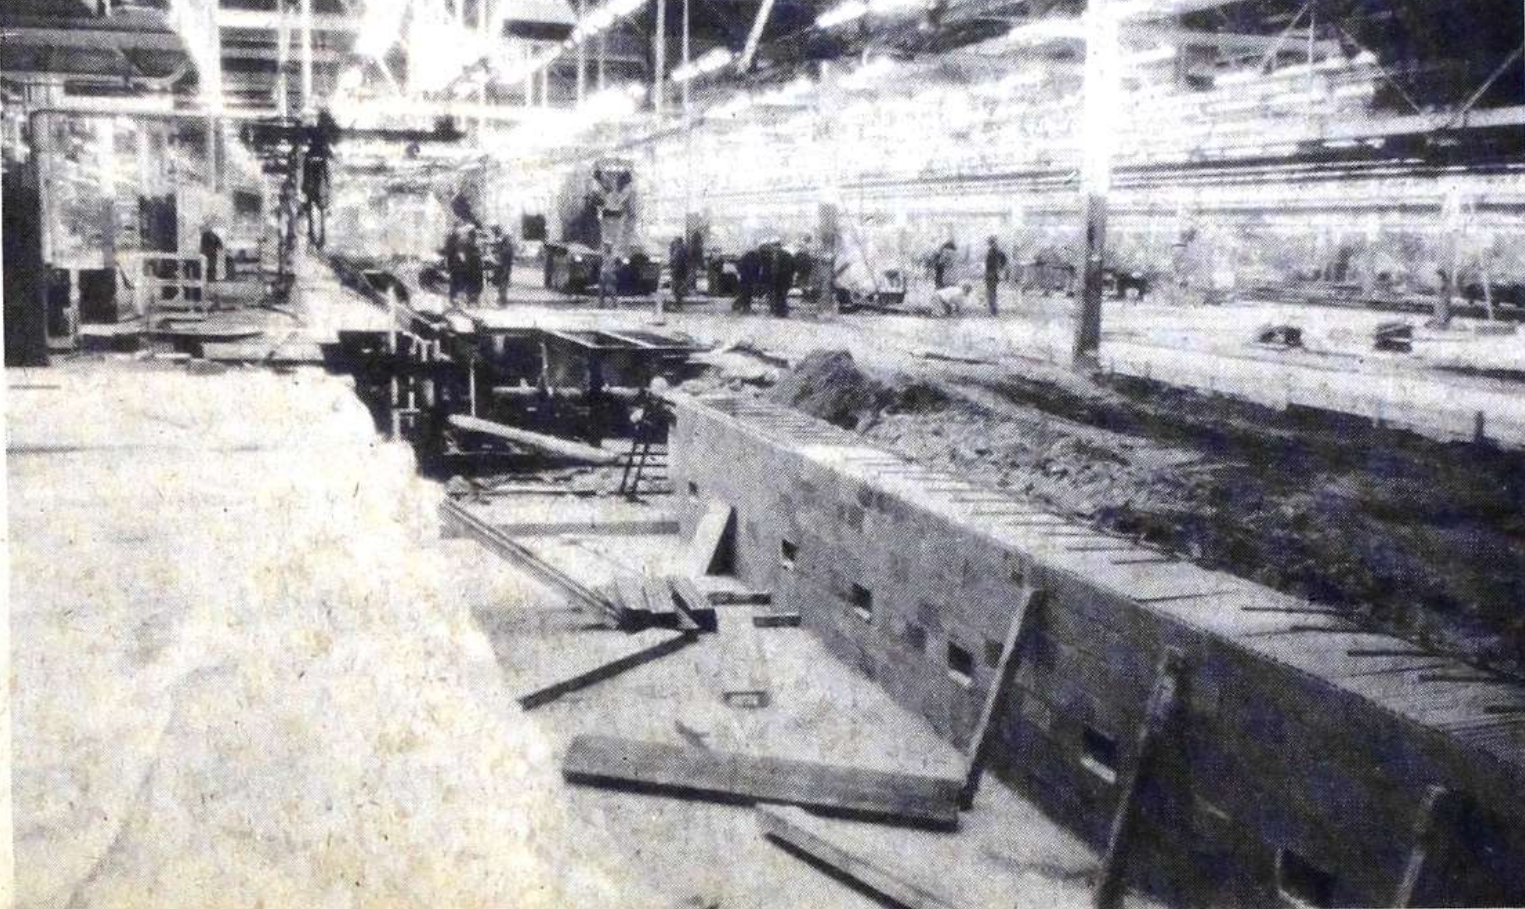

A construction crewman working on the conversion project, and looking ahead to the several weeks when compact cars roll off the Wayne line, said: "We're resetting some kind of history in getting this plant ready."

In the meantime, Wayne city and school officials are elated over the change to compact cars because it means jobs and the continuing flow of tax dollars into city and school treasury coffers.

And for the plant's employees living in Belleville, Garden City, Inkster, Westland, Romulus, Van Buren Township and Wayne — it means job security.

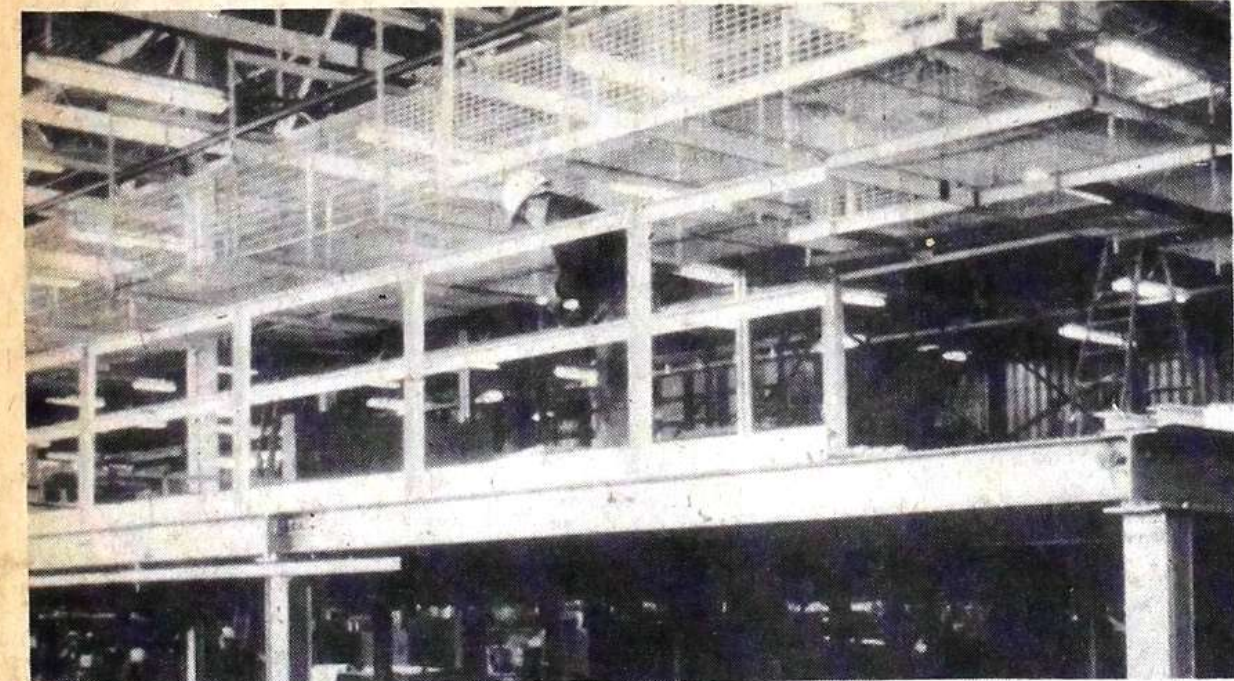

Welding crews have been working around the clock to get overhead cranes ready for that big day.

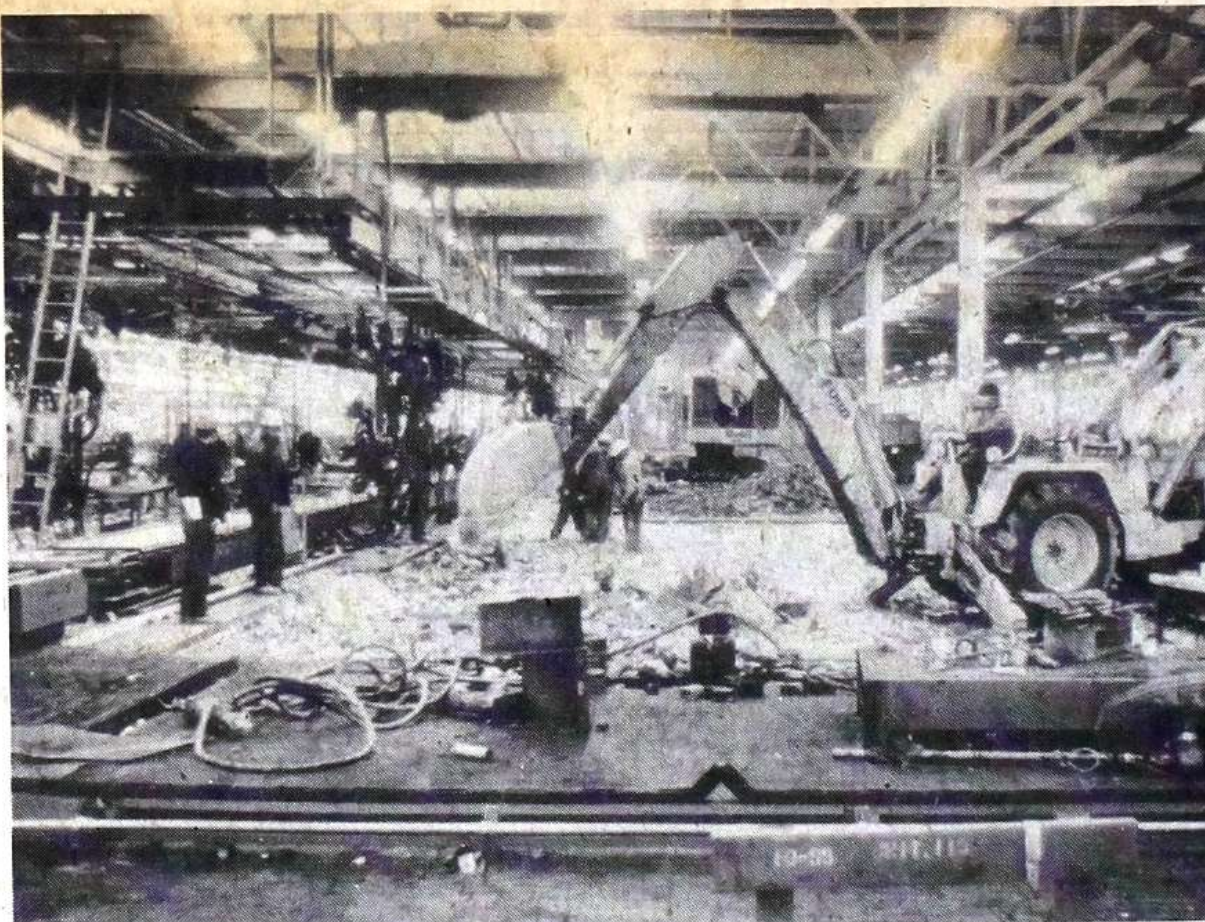

Better working facilities for assembly line pit production workers was given top priority by Ford officials in widening the working area at the Wayne plant.

Photos by Lothar
Konietzko

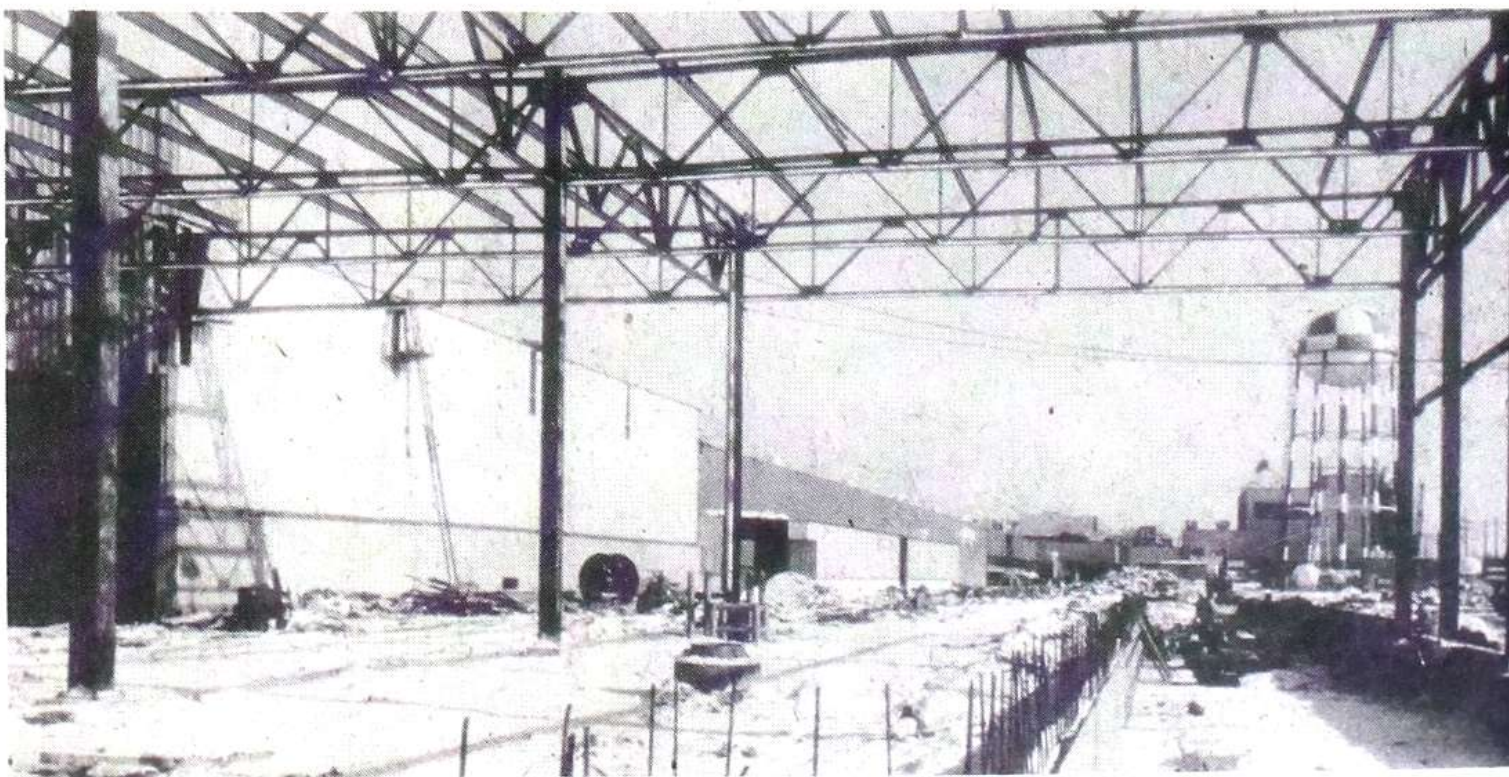

Adequate stock areas are vital to keep the lines humming, and when that happens—more cars for sale and that's what it is all about.

Converting from a standard to compact car facility is no easy task, but the well-coordinated conversion project is on target.

New steel beams means expansion and job security for employees at the Ford Assembly Plant in Wayne

In addition to plant conversion, Ford's Wayne Assembly facility is being expanded to keep pace with an expected bumper sales in Mavericks this energy-minded year.

Bill seeks reports on effects of construction

Concerned with the impact of federal and local projects on the environment, State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) has introduced legislation, calling for required environmental impact report on all proposed projects in the state.

The bill would require state agencies, board and commissions to prepare a report on any project it proposes, which may have a significant effect on the environment.

"Unless we start to consider the environmental impact of what we do today, we soon could face an environmental crisis with a much more devastating effect than the energy crisis," he said.

"SOMETIMES SLIGHT modifications in project plans are all that are needed to avoid environmental damage which, at a later date, could be either impossible to reverse or too expensive to correct," Faust added.

Under the bill, the report would contain information on any adverse environmental effects, which could not be avoided, if the proposal is implemented.

The report also would include any measures to minimize the impact, alternatives to the proposal and the growth-inducing impact of it.

State officials, responsible for making official comments on federal projects also would be required to file similar reports. State money would be impounded until such reports could be completed.

UNDER FAUST'S legislation, the report would be made available to the Legislature, the attorney general and the public. Copies would be filed with local planning agencies, at least 30 days prior to the start of projects.

Faust said that state agencies, which allocate state and federal funds for a local project, then would have to obtain an environmental impact report from the local agencies.

Those people applying to a public agency for a lease, permit, license or certificate for use may be required to submit information, enabling the public agency to decide whether the proposed project would have a significant impact on the environment.

The public agencies also could charge and collect a fee from any person proposing a project, which would require such a report.

FAUST SAID that to date seven states require federal agencies to produce such environmental impact statements.

"The people of Michigan have a right to know what damage could be caused to the environment by a proposed project, such as construction of a building or highway or a change in hunting or fishing regulations," Faust said.

City's fountain is geometric

A new fountain in the "city of fountains," Kansas City, has 49 water jets that can form a multicolor pyramid more than two stories high and 2,000 square feet at the base. The lighted vertical jets, arranged in a square, can be adjusted to various heights to make three-dimensional figures. The fountain is in the central square of Crown Center, a city-within-Kansas City.

Romulus '5' avenges loss to Parkers

IN CONTROL — Snatching this rebound from the boards, Romulus' John Long (50) makes sure that none of Highland Park's retreating cagers aren't up to any tricks like stealing the ball from the senior forward's hands. Long poured in a game high 27 points to lead the Eagles to their 10th victory in 11 starts. Ecorse is always tough on its own basketball court. And, the Red Raiders are also "a greatly improved ball club," warns Romulus Coach Jess Meriweather whose Eagles must get past the downriver cage power in order to post their 11th consecutive victory.

"We beat them handily the first time around," said Meriweather (the score was 89-62), but Ecorse has been coming on strong of late and, in my opinion, is one of the finest shooting ball clubs in the area.

"They like to run, so to beat them we will have to stop their running game and keep them from taking the percentage shots."

ROMULUS appeared as if it wouldn't have any trouble with the Suburban Athletic Conference co-leader, Highland Park, last Friday as John Long drilled in 10 points to stake the Eagles to an impressive 22-12 lead.

However, the Parkers, despite the 10-point deficit, battled back to cut that margin by five thanks to Michael Draper's hot-shooting. Draper picked up eight of his nine points in that period to help close the gap to 33-28 at the half.

The visiting Parkers made it even more interesting when they outscored the Eagles 17-14 in the next eight minutes to close within a basket of tying the score at the end of the third stanza, 45-47.

Romulus regained its earlier poise as Michael Morrison and Long led a Romulus comeback with seven and nine points, respectively, that left the stunned Colts trailing by 11 midway in the finale. Romulus managed to keep the pressure on the rest of the way.

"This was a big one for us," said Meriweather, "Highland Park had beaten us last year (1972) at the Rouge Holiday Tournaments and I really can't remember when a Romulus basketball team had beaten them - and I told my kids this."

FOUR OF Romulus' five starters counted double figures with Long's 27 points as tops for the game. James Hall chipped in 15 while guards Rickey Hubbert and Michael Morrison added 13 and 10 points, respectively.

Hall's 27 points and an excellent floor game from Morrison and Hubbert helped Romulus turn back a pesky Detroit Austin quintet, 81-63, earlier in the week.

Close for three periods - Romulus had a 22-18 first period edge, was ahead 44-35 at intermission and 62-52 for

As if Belleville Coach Tom Niemi didn't have enough problems, now he and his Tigers must face the hottest team in the Suburban 8 Basketball Conference - Dearborn Edsel Ford.

The slow-starting Edsel quintet has won four in a row, beating Dearborn 65-63 to stay within reach of league-leading Plymouth Salem (6-1).

And the T-Birds will be in town Friday night.

"Edsel is an awfully big ball club," noted Niemi after his team bowed to Redford Union 51-44 last Friday. "We lost to them the first time around by a close margin (65-60) but apparently they have improved and are coming off of a big win against their cross-town rivals."

Union as compared to his team's 0-for-5 effort.

Jack Helzer's six points helped R.U. take a 14-8 first period lead, then the two rivals battled to a standoff in the second eight minutes of the game, each scoring eight points.

ABRAHAM fired up his team in the third stanza as he connected for eight of the Tigers' 16 points which closed the gap to within three points, 35-33, of catching their hosts.

Then, Belleville scored the next three points of the fourth period and held the lead momentarily, 36-35, before R.U. shot back to take command again.

Abraham picked up 11 field goals for a game high 22 points. He was the only Belleville player to break the two figure scoring column.

Belleville was to travel to Romulus last night for a nonleague contest before returning home to begin the second round of league competition.

Eagles 3rd at DCC Romulus to host top wrestlers in state

The stage is set for the inaugural Romulus High Wrestling Invitational. And what a cast it will present to area fans.

Among these who will compete Saturday are Wayne Memorial, the top Class A team in the state this year; Adrian, the defending Class A champ; Fenton, the defending Class B champ; Alpena, Clawson, Walled Lake Central, Flint Northern and Romulus.

"We will have some really outstanding teams and wrestlers at this our first tournament," said Romulus Coach Jim Stallings. "Most of the teams are ranked in the state this year."

Tiger grapplers' mat streak snaps

By DALE GOWING
Enterprise-Roman Sports Writer

Nothing but pleasant words are emanating from Belleville wrestling coach Gerald Malecek these days, even though his Tigers suffered their first mat defeat of the dual meet season last Thursday.

With half of the schedule behind them the Tigers sport a 3-1 record - which pleases Malecek to no end because last year at this time his squad was 0-4.

"Things are just going a lot better now than last year," he explained. "We're 3-1 now as opposed to winless at 0-4 and I think our sophomores have had a lot to do with the success."

BELLEVILLE'S sophomore starters are Greg Johnson (100 pounds) Jeff Bracken (121), Dan Porter (128).

How to lose in baseball and succeed

By TOM MOORADIAN

Billy Ray is one of those rare guys who can turn a loss into a gain.

An outstanding athlete at Belleville High where, after swatting the baseball around the diamond at a .401 clip and compiling a 25-3 won-lost record on the mound back in 1967, Ray signed with the Baltimore Orioles for a fat bonus.

He kicked around the minor leagues for the next five years, going to Bluefield in West Virginia as a rookie, then to Miami Florida in the Florida State League as a sophomore and eventually to Dallas in the Fort Worth "AA" League, shifting from pitching to concentrate on the outfield and hitting.

"It was rough," admitted Ray, who is presently 25 years old, married and the father of two children. "But I enjoyed it. It was sort of challenging."

THE CHALLENGE ended in 1971 - 14 days after the Detroit Tigers picked him up and sent the ex-All-Area star to Montgomery, Ala.

"Fourteen days," reminisced Ray, "then it happened."

He paused as if he could see himself rushing to make that diving catch which ended his baseball career.

"Tracowski (Dick) was managing us then," continued Ray "and I was in that day's starting lineup as an outfielder. And this guy hits a low line drive at me and I went after it and dove to make the catch."

"The next thing I remember was an awful pain in my shoulder."

Ray learned later he had suffered a broken collarbone.

"That's when I decided that I had enough of baseball and returned home," said Ray.

Bill married his high school sweetheart, Martina, and the marriage has produced two girls, Sally, 5, and Susie, 3. They make their home in Dearborn. Readjusting to "normal" life after the pressurized Minor Leagues, Ray used his acuity to break records in the field of sales.

For the past 2½ years he has been employed by Leo Adler (Farmington) Auto Dealership as a Datsun car salesman. And, it isn't difficult to understand how the gregarious ex-All-Area star has made a success in his new endeavor.

Last year he sold 512 cars to become the nation's top Datsun car salesman.

"California has usually held down that honor," said Ray, "and a lot of people in Detroit were surprised when they learned that we beat the people out on the west coast."

Ray figures he will be going back to school to complete his college education. He attended Eastern Michigan briefly in 1968, while playing for the Orioles.

"I want to get in as much business administration courses that I can," said Ray, "that's the only way."

"And my personal advice to those athletes who want to make it with the big leagues is to make sure they get all the education they can so if something unexpected happens they can fall back on their schooling."

Belleville tankers eye Plymouth as 1st victim

Having a young swim team has its advantages and disadvantages, according to Belleville High head coach Sam Vicchy.

The Tigers, who dropped their second straight Suburban 8 Conference dual meet 91-81 last week to Trenton, after winning five straight, are loaded with sophomore talent this season. "If we get some of our sophomores to overcome their stage fright," added the Belleville coach, "we are going to beat some of our league rivals."

BELLEVILLE will meet Plymouth tomorrow for their next league test.

"Plymouth is as good as Trenton and Allen Park," warns Vicchy. "So it's another tough one for us."

Belleville managed to pick off three first places against Trenton which "was made to really hustle to win this one," said Vicchy.

Dwight Bell, who touched in at 2:00.2 in the 200-yard freestyle, Dennis Harkness, a 1:00.5 performer in the 100-yard butterfly, and Ray Liebler, who had 230.55 on the diving boards took firsts for the local team.

Malecek lauds team

George Jarvis (147) and Randy Slocum (187). "Last year we didn't have as much talent and seemed to be just putting people in the weight classes to fill them. Now we have more talent with these sophomores and aren't just putting anybody in there," Malecek said.

The Tigers will have another opportunity to prove Malecek's point when they journey to Suburban Eight League foe Plymouth Thursday for a 6:30 p.m. contest.

They had a slightly rougher time than expected last Thursday in absorbing their first loss, 33-19, at the hands of league opponent Trenton.

BELLEVILLE swept to wins in three of the first four matches for a 12-6 lead and good momentum, but Porter couldn't stave off Trenton's George Campeau at 128 pounds in getting pinned with two seconds left in their bout. The Belleville soph carried a 14-5 lead up to the 5:58 mark of the six-minute match, but Campeau finally pinned him just before time ran out.

"That was the turning point," acknowledged Malecek. "The pin tied the meet score at 12-12 and kind of turned the momentum in their favor."

Belleville gained some of the momentum back on Hubert Russell's ensuing 3-2 decision of Trenton's Tom Church, but the hosts bounced right back with a decision and two pins in the next three matches to spell the Trenton victory.

Though the meet was virtually decided before the final two matches, the Tigers received a morale boost with Slocum's excellent performance against Trenton's Joe Dixon - the state class A champion at 187 pounds.

SLOCUM LED until the final 20 seconds of the match when Dixon grabbed a quick three points for a narrow 6-5 decision.

Other winners for Belleville were Marty Darty (107), Steve Wilson (114), Bracken (121) and George Medley (169).

Hospitals face crunch under federal controls

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Americans may be facing a "hospital crunch" in addition to the other "crunches," caused by economics, unless regulations covering hospitals under Phase Four of President Nixon's economic plan are re-evaluated.

Franklin Carr, administrator of the Detroit Memorial — South Macomb Hospital told a gathering of hospital public relations workers last week that limitations on increasing hospital rates under Phase Four would cause health care in the nation to remain at a 1972-73 level indefinitely.

"The present system restricts hospitals to holding rates under a 7.5 per cent increase per year," Carr said. "In this era of surging technological gains, project shortages and rising wages for hospital employees, it will be impossible to improve care at that rate."

CARR SAID the hospital industry like other industries faces the problem of rising prices and increasing wages, but hospitals are regulated under Phase Four.

"Hospital employees are entitled to increased wages, and supplies must be pur-

'Why are we limited in raising our rates?'

chased for good health care," Carr said.

"Why are we limited in raising our rates?" he asked.

"All other industries are allowed to cover increased costs on a pro-rata basis, as evidenced by the rise in gasoline prices, so why aren't hospital?" he added.

According to Carr, part of the reason is that on a 10-year basis, the cost of health care has risen at a higher rate than any other service or commodity in the nation, including housing.

BUT, CARR added, hospitals have had to increase costs to pay for new technology, to bring hospital workers, who traditionally have been underpaid, up to standards of other workers and to meet rising material costs.

"What hospital today would be without a kidney unit?" he asked. "We're facing the possibility of not being able to purchase these units and other life-saving devices, unless we are able to increase our income."

Carr said that 10 years ago, the skill of a respiratory therapist was unknown.

Now, when the skill is needed, hospitals are unable to obtain the workers.

"Detroit Memorial—South Macomb, recently began a training program, and as soon as we train them, they go to another hospital," he said.

"WE FACE the possibility of hospitals at 192-73 levels of care into the 1980s, unless something is done now to correct the situation," Carr added.

"Then we will have a nation, which once lead the universe in health care, that cannot compete in that field anymore, because of artificial controls on the economy."

Carr suggested that other hospital administrators inform elected officials of the problem. He also suggested that public relations workers get information on rising costs to the public to explain the ramifications of holding down rates in terms of the future.

"Otherwise, we'll fall far behind other nations," he said. "And, to be more self-serving, we'll be out of jobs, because the first jobs to go will be those of public relations persons, even though they help keep the public informed of hospital care."

Board postpones resignation action

Formal acceptance by the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees of the resignation of William A. Loyd, part-time director of the township's recreation department, has been deferred, pending a recommendation from the Van Buren Township Recreation Commission.

Loyd, a teacher at Belleville's South Junior High School, submitted his resignation two weeks ago because of what he termed "grave and new responsibilities which exceed the capabilities of a part-time director."

He had directed the township's recreational program since his hiring in May, 1971.

THE RECREATION commission is considering the employment of a full-time parks and recreation manager for the township. Applications are being accepted by the township clerk, Mrs. Patricia Cullin, at the township hall, 46425 Tyler Rd.

Several applications already received are under study by the recreation commission. Guidelines for the post have been set up and are available at the township hall.

The expanded recreation program in the township and the recent acquisition of Edison Pointe Park from the Detroit Edison Co. necessitated the new appointment.

Loyd added that his resignation would remain open until a new director-manager is hired and a satisfactory period of transition is completed.

In other business the trustees approved a request filed by the American Cancer Society for permission to conduct its annual crusade in the township on April 1-5.

The board also:

—accepted and filed a resolution from Plymouth Township, opposing an increase in the gasoline tax by the federal government. The township trustees previously supported a similar resolution received from Redford Township.

—tabled until more information is available a request by Landy W. Box of 47434 N. Shore Dr. for permission to dredge Lot 29 along the shore of Belleville Lake, the work would level off approximately 12 inches of a sand bar to enable Box to bring his boat ashore.

Van Buren Township joins Huron Utilities Authority

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved a resolution authorizing the township's membership in the Huron Utilities Authority, headquartered in the City of Ypsilanti.

Present members of the authority include the communities of Ypsilanti, Augusta, Superior, Pittsfield and Deerfield townships.

The Huron Utilities Authority was set up under Act 233 of the Public Acts of 1955, for the financing and construction of sewer and water projects.

IN ITS RECENT communication to the authority the Van Buren Township administration said that the township plans to undertake a considerable amount of sewer and water construction and "in order to finance this construction was interested in joining the authority."

Sewer and water projects in Van Buren Township, will be constructed with the assistance of engineers, financial consultants and bond counsel designated by officials, Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer said.

The motion to the formal Huron Utilities Authority resolution was made by Van Buren Trustee Dominick W. Blend. He was supported by Van Buren Trustee Darwin Kureth.

The township's representative to the authority will be announced at the next trustees meeting.

Parking lot has a guard

A full-time lot attendant has been employed at the Belleville High School, 555 W. Columbia Ave., Belleville.

He is Walter Roberts of 476 W. Columbia Ave., Belleville, a retired Navy man.

The Van Buren Board of Education recently approved a request made by John P. Ford, the high school's principal, for the employment of a full-time parking lot attendant and watchman to increase control of parking lot activity.

Roberts replaces Belleville police officers, who patrolled the lot area for 45 minutes a day at a cost of $18 per day. Roberts will receive $24 per day to occupy an orange and red building recently constructed by the school's custodians.

Ford said the full-time attendant and watchman could limit the number of people coming through the parking lot to students who have permits to drive to school and also limit other problems.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

How often do you express a doubt? How often do you have doubts about your abilities or doubts about other people? It is healthy and wise to have doubts at times about certain things, but when doubts become chronic and cloud simple reasoning, then doubting has deteriorated to a sickness of skepticism.

We see men of poise and serenity; we see them with all the trappings of faith and dignity and we doubt whether these men ever have a doubt about anything. They seem so sure of themselves. But they too have doubts at times.

To doubt is only human. This was true from the days of the Psalmists to and through the days of Thomas and is true today. When we find ourselves gripped with uncertainty, we are bound to have doubts. But promiscuous doubting should not be.

Doubts torment us only because we have too little faith. This is true whether it applies to people, science, religion or anything else. Obviously then, the best way to reduce doubts is to increase faith. Sounds simple? It is...

Upon Motion by Councilman Amerman, supported by Councilman Tontalo, the following preamble and resolution were offered:

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the City of Belleville has been advised through the newspapers of a proposed one mill property tax levy for "Public safety programs," and

WHEREAS, the proceeds of the one mill levy are allegedly to be used for an undefined "all out war on crime" and

WHEREAS, the proposal contemplates a distribution of a portion of the millage back to local units of government within the County of Wayne, and

WHEREAS, it is questionable whether or not the County can legally levy a tax and then distribute the proceeds of such tax on any basis back to local units of government within the County.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Council of the City of Belleville does hereby object to the proposed one mill levy for an undefined public safety program.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City of Belleville objects to the levy of taxes on its citizens with a portion of that tax being returned to it under undefined conditions of the County, and

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of Belleville believes that each local community should provide in its own budget sufficient funds to provide for public safety.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Council of the City of Belleville is opposed to the one mill tax levy, at least until such time as the Board of Wayne County Commissioners clearly specifies the purposes for which such tax increase would be used.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a certified copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, to the General Government Committee of the Board of County Commissioners, and to the representatives on the Board of County Commissioners from this area.

AYES: STINEHOUR, PALMER, TONTALO, AMERMAN, SMITH.

NAYS: NONE.

The new revised plans from Van Buren Township were received by the Mayor and City Council, and Motion by Amerman, seconded by Tontalo, that the plans be referred to the City Engineers for the study and recommendations.

Carried Unanimously.

Motion by Stinehour, seconded by Palmer, that the following Ordinance be offered:

Councilman Tontalo discussed with the Mayor and Council the proposed Recreation Department of the Belleville Area.

Motion by Tontalo, seconded by Amerman, that Mayor Smith and Councilman Stinehour, be authorized to attend a meeting for City Officials on February 13, 1974 at 3 p.m. regarding the Crime Tax Levy with the Board of Commissioners of Wayne County.

Carried Unanimously.

Mayor Smith, advised the Council of the letters of appreciation from the business places in town of their appreciation for a fine job of snow removal in the City Parking Lot and sidewalks on Main St. by the Department of Public Works.

Motion by Amerman, seconded by Tontalo, that the meeting be adjourned.

Carried Unanimously.

Acting City Clerk

JUST FOR FUN—When the heavy snow hit Romulus last week, friends William Reed, 10 (left), and Lonzo Clark, 9, obligingly took part in some snow jostling for our photographer—and they came through as professional models. After the picture-taking, William and Lonzo headed for home from the Beverly School playground with one request. "Don't forget to say we're buddies." And an appreciative Roman photographer thanked the two boys for their cooperation in the "just for fun" picture-taking.—Romulus Roman photo.

Panax Corp. announces retirement of UP newspapers' general manager

The regional manager of three Upper Peninsula newspapers owned by Panax Corp. and general manager of The Mining Journal at Marquette will retire Feb. 1. He is James H. Luke.

Luke's retirement follows the successful conversion of The Mining Journal October 29, from letterpress to offset production, a major transformation in the 128-year history of the newspaper.

It will end a 27-year career of newspaper management for Luke, both with Panax and with Frank Russell, former Mining Journal publisher.

"WE WILL FEEL the loss of Jim Luke in the Upper Peninsula, but we respect the decision," said Michael L. Dow, executive vice-president of Panax.

McCauley is appointed to Senate affairs panel

State Senator John E. McCauley (D-Wyandotte) has been appointed as a member of the State Affairs Committee in the Michigan State Senate.

"I accepted this appointment well aware that this committee is one of the most active in the legislature," McCauley said. "Historically, State Affairs handles more than 250 bills a year and is especially concerned with regulatory legislation that affects the lives of every citizen of Michigan."

The State Affairs Committee has been the target of some criticism in recent months, but Sen. McCauley said that one of the main reasons was the absence of its chairman, Sen. Anthony Stamm (R-Kalamazoo), who has been absent from the senate for months, suffering a disabling stroke. The Republican leadership recently appointed Sen. Phillip Pittenger (R-Lansing) to serve in Sen. Stamm's place. "I know that State Affairs has a lot of catching up to do," McCauley said. "With a determination on the part of all the members of the Committee to do their job, I know that we will report out legislation such as the auto mechanics bill that is needed in this state."

'Number' adds hot line times

"The Number," the Belleville area's crisis-counseling hot line service, has announced a change in its hour of operation and an expansion of its services to residents of Romulus and Huron Township.

Beginning on Friday, trained staff members will be taking calls from 2 p.m. to midnight daily and from 2 p.m. to 2 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

The change in hours was made; based on the time calls were received during the first five months of "The Number's" operation.

NUMBER OFFICIALS feel that making the hot line service available during the new hours will meet the needs of the community.

"During the non-open hours, callers who dial the hot line number will be connected to a recording device, which will provide the phone number of another area service which is taking calls," said F. Robert Harkai, director. "This, in effect, will provide the area with a 24-hour referral service."

In operation since Aug. 1 the non-profit corporation is staffed by volunteer area residents who underwent 21-hour training session with Harkai.

Trained to be sensitive listeners, the staff deals with all types of problems, including drug abuse, problem pregnancies and general depression.

THE HOT LINE service is available to persons of all ages with any sort of problem. Anyone needing assistance can dial 699-2039.

"The Number," which will serve the areas of Belleville, Romulus, Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron townships, also operates a drug analysis service.

DATSUN SAVES
About a gallon of gasoline a day
With the demand for fuel rising faster than the supply, here's one way to help ease our energy crisis. According to the latest U.S. Bureau of Highways figures, the national average for gas mileage is about 12.5 miles per gallon. The new Datsun 1200 gets around 30 miles per gallon or over twice the national average. The average car in the U.S. is driven just over 10,000 miles a year, so you can save about a gallon of gas every day by driving a 1200. With gasoline prices going up, it's a considerable saving of another important resource: your money. Drive a Datsun...then decide.
